

FLIP THE SWITCH

Nichole Carlson is an intuitive mindset & manifestation coach. Tired of following society, she left her safe software engineering job and white-picket-fence life in 2008 when she got a divorce, sold her house, quit her job, sold her car, and the next day she got on a one-way ticket to Spain. She traveled for several years and was even homeless at one point because of her money blocks.

She decided to come back and build her soul-led life and business. In the midst of it, she faced relationship issues and chronic health pain for 4 years, which kept her from thriving in her business. One day, she decided enough was enough, and she healed herself instantly, manifested her future husband a month later, and now she's on track for a million dollars in her business.
